Local Government Reform Was Topic Of Hearing

Lieutenant Governor Ed Reinecke has announced that the California Council on Intergovernmental Relations (CIR) held public hearing on the subject of local government reform last Friday, July 6, in the City of Monterey, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers, City Hall, Madison & Pacific Streets. The hearing was one of 24 being held across the State through the month of July, as part of the Reagan administration's Local Government Reform Project. The hearings are being conducted under the auspices of the Governor's Council on Intergovernmental Relations to receive comments and proposals for future forms of local government from local officials, citizen groups, academic specialists in state and local affairs, and interested private citizens.

The Monterey hearing was chaired by Mr. Wesley McClure, City Manager from the City of San Leandro. Other members of the CIR who received testimony were: Joseph Bort, Supervisor from Alameda County; Jim Robbins, President, Hayward Area Recreation & Park District; and Raymond Croft, from the Division of Local Government Fiscal Affairs, Office of the State Controller.

The CIR indicated that witnesses could address their testimony to any aspect of local government reform in California, although a number of areas had been singled out as being of special interest to the members of the panel. Among these were:

(1) An analysis of the structures of local government, with specific recommendations for alternative structures;

(2) Comments on the manner in which public service responsibilities are allocated--which level or knit of government provides which public service;

(3) The manner in which fiscal resources are allocated--who collects what kind of taxes;

(4) The viability of existing boundaries--expecially county boundaries;

(5) The degree to which the citizens control and direct the various units of government which serve them; and

(6) The nature of intergovernmental relations generally.

Medicare Now Covers Care By Chiropractors

There's good news this week for the many senior citizens, disabled and other persons qualified for Medicare who are among America's 40 million chiropractic patients.

Beginning July 1 they will be able, for the first time, to submit claims for chiropractic care for payment under the Medicare system.

Passage of this new law by the Congress was hailed as a milestone by Dr. Eugene Schultz, of Watsonville, president of the Monterey Bay Chiropractic Society.

"This law ends the previous discrimination that was practiced against chiropractic patients," he said. "Now every American can have freedom of choice in selecting his own doctor and his own type of doctor to provide the kind of treatment the patient believes best for him."

Many member doctors of the local society, which is one of 30 component chapters of the California Chiropractic Association, attended one of two seminars held in Los Angeles and San Francisco the past two Sundays for the purpose of instructing them in processing of Medicare claims.

Instruction was provided by representatives fo the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, of leading insurance companies, and of the CCA's Health Services Foundation.

Information regarding Medicare coverage of chiropractic treatment may be obtained from any office of the Social Security Administration, from any local member-doctor of CCA or by calling collect to the CCA Office in Sacramento at (916) 443-6601 or in Los Angeles at (213) 981-5340.

Sponsor Workshop

"Thinking of Going into Business?" will be the topic of an interesting business workshop to be presented free on Wednesday, July 25, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey.

Co-sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula and Seaside Chambers of Commerce with the U.S Small Business Administration, this special work shop is designed to help small business owners and managers. Guest speakers will discuss the legal aspects of starting a business, taxes, advertising, record keeping and financial planning.

Persons interested in attending the workshop should call Steve Wyke at 375-2252 before Monday, July 23, to reserve a seat. Additional information concerning the workshop will be provided upon request.

KZEN Is Most Popular FM Station Here

KZEN was found to be the most-listened-to FM Station in Seaside, according to an independent survey conducted by the American Institute for Research Program in Palo Alto, California.

The survey also revealed that the Seaside station was the second most popular FM station in Salinas and was also the third favotite AM or FM station in Seaside.

The conclusions reached were the result of a questionnaire administered in June 1973 to a stratified sample of students in Monterey County junior and senior high schools. The question was asked in the context of a questionnaire which determined what useful kinds of public service information could be conveyed to young people via radio.

ARMY RECRUITER

Hello everyone.

When you're thinking about the future, and a possible career, you want to be sure you choose something that will still be in demand in 20 years. And something that will pay pretty well, too. Many young people today are preparing themselves for just such a career in physical therapy. Physical therapists and their assistants now number over 21,000 and are increasing rapidly year after year.

Physical therapy assistants usually work under the supervision of professional physical therapists to rehabilitate disabled persons to again lead productive lives. Assistants help perform tests on patients to determine the required treatment and, in turn, assist in the administration of it. They use special therapy equipment to apply cold, heat, light, sound and massage. They also help patients do therapueutic exercises and functional activities like walking and climbing stairs. In 1970, almost 10,000 physical therapy assistants were employed in the United States-almost half of them women. Most worked in physical therapy departments of general hospitals while others were in rehabilitation centers, nursing homes, crippled children's hospitals, and physicians' or physical therapists' offices.

For a young man or woman without money to afford other means for training in this field, TODAY'S ARMY can be the starting place for you. Qualified young men and women interested in this field will take their training at the Army's Medical Field Services School at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. They learn anatomy and physiology; clinical observation and practices; ethics; introduction to physical therapy; physical agents; and physical therapy applied to medical and surgical conditions. After completing school, students are assigned to an Army hospital where they work directly under physical therapist as part of the hospital's professional staff. Continuing educational programs are always available and on-the-job-training is superior.

While being trained you will earn $307.20 a month, free education, TODAY'S ARMY provides room and board, complete medical and dental protection and 30 days paid vacation annually.

For more information about the Physical Therapy Field or many other career fields, please contact us at 431-Webster St. or call 372-4742/372-0553.

Warned Of Half Moon Bay Danger

The Department of Navigation and Ocean Development has issued a warning to all boatmen in the Half Moon Bay area. The Department revealed that in the past 30 months eight capsizings have killed 13 of the area's boatmen. Five persons escaped with serious injuries. Of these mishaps, two occurred in the surf along the shoreline and eight were reported in the shoal and reef breakers outside of the marbor. According to the Department, none of these victims were wearing personal flotation devices.

John E. Bennett, Department Director, said, "The surf northwest and southwest of Pillar Point poses a serious danger to small craft and should be avoided at all times. Also, in the reef areas, breaking waves can appear suddenly without warning."

To avoid boating accidents in this area, Bennett warned boaters to stay clear of the Half Moon Bay shoal and reef areas at low tide, during heavy swells or strong winds. Boatmen were further advised to put on personal flotation devices when the wave action builds up.

TrainingReductionAtOrd

Fort Ord will discontinue one basic training battalion headquarters and nine basic training companies, Major J.D. Coleman, Post Information Officer, announced recently.

This action is the result of a requirement to further realign the basic combat training capacity attendant to the reduction in the Army's training workload.

The nine training company phasedown will be effective in July, 1973.

Similar reductions will be made at Forts Dix and Knox.

As a result of this action, Fort Ord's basic training structure will consist of two brigades and a total of 36 training companies.

The Combat Support Advanced Individual Training Brigade remains untouched by this action and continues with five battalions.

A total of 250 personnel will be directly affected by the discontinuance, but few actually will leave Fort Ord. Most will be used to fill vacancies elsewhere on post.

There also will be some impact on post support elements, but an exact determination has not yet been made.

Moore Leaving August 1

The departure of Major General H.G. Moore, which previously was announced as mid-July, has been changed to August 1.

Brigadier General Robert G. Gard, Jr., who has been selected to be promoted to major general, will take command of Fort Ord on August 2.

General Moore will assume command of the US Army Military Personnel Center (MILPERCEN) in Alexandria, Virginia on August 16.

New Enlistment Program Tested By Army Guard

Effective July 1, 1973, and for a period of 90 days, the California Army National Guard has been authorized to enlist non-prior service personnel for a period of 4 years in the active National Guard and the remaining 2 years of the total 6 year obligation, as a member of the annual training control group.

Major General Glenn C. Ames, Commanding General of the California National Guard, stated that this test is one of a series which are being instituted to potentially increase enlistments in the National Guard and other reserve components. General Ames says this particular test will enable a young man without prior service to enlist for a 4 year period and spend the last two years of his 6 year obligation attending 15 days of annual field training only. Since 1963, the Army National Guard has been allowed to enlist non-prior service personnel for the full period of the reserve obligation, 6 years. In other words, General Ames stated, that to satisfy an individuals reserve obligation, he has obligated to attend one week-end a month and 15 days of annual training for 6 years.

Big Hat Barbeque Is Today

Tonight, July 11, will usher in the first of a series of Western-oriented activities in Salinas leading up to the nationally famous California Rodeo which this year will be held July 19 through 22.

It's the night of the Big Hat Barbecue which is sponsored annually by the Monterey County Sheriff's Posse at their grounds on Old Natividad Road, once a way station for San Francisco bound stage coaches.

The barbecue is the signal for all Salinas citizens to don big hats and other Western attire for the duration of Salinas "Big Week," which will continue through July 22 with parades, square dances, music in the shopping centers a carnival which opens Friday (July 13) and four days of track and arena competition.

Entries for the riding, roping and steer wrestling events closed Monday evening (July 9) and many of the world's champion cowboys are entered to pit their skill against some of the roughest broncs, bulls and steers to be found in the West in quest of a share of the $50,000 prize money and points towards national championships.

Entries for the stock horse and cutting horse classes on the track are also reported to be heavy, and George Richardson, track chairman, has signed up some of the most colorful acts ever seen at Salinas.

These include an exhibition of dressage by "Alcalde," who is believed to be the only purebred Andalusian in the United States. "Alcalde," will be ridden by Susan Reason whose Spanish costumes were created by Mildred Nelson, owner of "Alcalde," and are each valued at more than one thousand dollars.

Also new to the Salinas area will be the Eh-Capa Bareback Riders from Boise, Idaho. This unique group which is making its first trip to the Pacific Coast, takes its name from the reverse spelling of Apache. It consists of forty youngsters who ride Indian fashion without saddles or bridles and do an intricate drill over a four foot jump.

Dick Griffith, who has provided many top acts for Salinas over the years, will present the Arena Athenas, a group of four young people who have perfected the ancient art of Roman Riding. One of four teams will be driven by Dick's wife, Connie, one by their son, Tad, one by Lyndi Bell Irwin, Yucaipa, and the fourth by Kathy Hernandez, Austin Texas.

The grand entry at the rodeo grounds is at 1:30 o'clock each day, except on Sunday (July 22) when the activities start promptly at 12, noon, to permit a special tribute to those of Mexican descent who have contributed so much to the sport of rodeo and to the Salinas area.

The tribute will consist of a contest for the most beautiful costumes in several age groups, Mexican folk dancing, breaking of pinatas by charros and mariachi music.

GREAT ACTION -- Scenes like this are plentiful at nationally famous California Rodeo, which will be held in Salinas from July 19 through July 22. Don't miss this action-packed, thrilling spectacular.

Monterey Peninsula Seaside — After Dark —

By Tom Nash

Upon leaving Oakland, after a brain washing session which I received from the Publisher, Tom Berkley, I headed for Seaside to find out what was happening in the Tourist Capitol of the West.

Oakland, Berkeley and San Jose had temperatures ranging in the 80's, but not the Monterey Peninsula. When I arrived, I almost froze to death. The wind was blowing, and fog had come in, and it took me three days to thaw out.

I started searching for a motel to spend the night, but, yes, you guessed it. All the motels were posting signs that read: "No Vacancies." One was bond enough to hoist one that read: "Sorry, better luck next time."

As I was giving up, and made up my mind that I would go down to the Police Department and seek shelter for the night by breaking out one of their windows, I spotted a motel that had a "Vacancy sign" still lit up. I wheeled to the burb jumped out of the car, charged the front door like a fullback, hit the door with all of my 110 pounds, just in time to see the night attendant push the button that lit up the "No Vacancy sign."

My only contact in Seaside was Clintel Porter, who was in a hospital in San Francisco, so I was up that creek without the proverbal paddle. The hour was creeping towards midnight, and still no shelter for the night. In the meantime my eyes are getting heavier by the minute, and I started looking around for a small window to break to bring the local constabulary so that I could assure myself of lodgings.

As I was searching, I happen to see an unlit sign that said "Vacancy," then quick as a wink, I ran the car upon the front porch, thereby blocking any other entrance, jumped out of the car with the motor still running, threating the owners with violation of their affirmative action program, threatening to call on the services of the Congress of Racial Equality, the Peace and Freedom Party, the NAACP, The Baptist Ministers Union, the I.B.P.O.E. of W. and the KKK to help me picket and demonstrate if they failed to have one room available. I went so far as to promise to lay down on the counter if he told me he didn't have a vacancy.

Finally, when I ran out of breath, the manager asked in a very quiet voice, "Sir, how many are there in your party?"

Glaring like the Biblical Goliath as he faced the meek David, I grumbled: "One, and I suppose you are going to tell me that you don't have one available?" No sir, he replied. "It just so happens that , that is all I have. You are goetting the la st cabin, now I can go to bed."

This was my introduction to Seaside. I arrived just before the big Sunday Parade, during the time when in addition to the parade, there were four conventions in the Monterey area. Every motel and hotel was filled to overflowing.

After this good fortune, I decided to see what kind of night life Seaside had to offer. Across the street from the motel was the "Casa Blanca," where I met Fred Lumboy, who had one of the finest bands I have heard since being on the Peninsula. In talking to Fred I learned of Dave's Wintergarten in Salinas that has my kind of entertainment going on. It was nearing the hour of 2 a.m., and knowing I would have a rough day at the office, I decided to call it a night.

The following day, I met John Perkins, a photographer, who filled me in with the happenings in Monterey, Seaside, Marina, Ft. Ord, and before he let me depart, I had a complete working knowledge of every happening between Monterey and Alberta Canada. In addition to his being a superior photographer, he is a walking book of information. I went by KZEN Radio, where I met the owner, manager, and most of the Disc Jockeys.

I stopped by a "Left-handed" club in Del Monte, where every one in the club is related. All of them have the same first name. I think it was "William," or Bill, or something similar. They were the friendliest people. They permitted me to set up the house three or four times. This was very neighborly. Then I found out that they had some of the best "Soul Food" in town. Since then I have gained around four pounds (around the waist). They call themselves some kind of animal. I think it was the Bear Club, or maybe it was the Elks Club. But they are a swinging group.

I went to the Fireside Club, not knowing anyone, but guess who as the first person I saw as I came through the door? Old evil Willie Admas, who used to attend bar at Jimmy Wards "Lamppost" in Oakland. He was grinning like a fox-eating-yellowjackets. Naturally, this was like old homeweek for me. Thus was I indoctrinated to Seaside. More about the night scene next week.

Mr. Clint Porter, we wish you a very speedy recovery! The day after your operation, we telephoned the U.S. Public Health Hospital and learned that you were spreading cheer to other patients and couldn't answer the phone. On June 29 we called again only to learn that you had been discharged with the admonition not to strain your eyes for at least a month. God speed your total recovery, Clint.

We on the Monterey Peninsula are very proud of Miss JoAnn Ford who captured the title of MISS BLACK TEENAGE, California 1973-74. This is the second year in a row that this honor has been bestowed upon SEASIDE as Miss Regina Battle obtained this same title last year. The Monterey Peninsula Cotillion League is seeking monetary assistance in helping to send Miss JoAnn Ford and her mother to New York for the National Finals of the Miss Black Teenage America Pageant, July 20, 1973.

Please help with any size donation by sending it to The JoAnn Ford Fund, c/o Security Savings & Loan, 1033 Broadway, Seaside. Ed Fisher, the manager at Security Savings, is personally trying to raise an additional $800.000 still needed.

Find a need and fulfill it. We still need a library! The City has expended $10,000 for preliminary plans for a 12,000 square foot library building that was to be federally funded. The preliminary plans are on the shelf, gathering dust, while we still pursue potential sources for the necessary funds. The library must remain a high priority item for the City.

New Post Office. Eighteen months ago, the U.S Postal Service acquired in simple fee (completely purchased) all of the property at Bradway and Terrace Street necessary to construct a 14,000 square foot new Post Office Building. The City has taken all the necessary legal steps to permit the actual construction of the building. Seaside is suffering from benign neglect as we read about Carmel Valley going out to bid for a new Post Office and also the City of Carmel being informed they will have a new Post Office. Despite repeated telephone calls to the Western Region of the Postal Service no positive answers, let alone architectural plans, have been forthcoming. In the interim the Broadway and Terrace Postal Service property becomes an eye sore due to the accumulation of trash and weeds.

Public Bus Transportation. On September 11, 1972, all the Monterey Peninsula cities and the County of Monterey entered into an agreement with the Bay Rapid Transit Company to jointly pay a $3,000 monthly subsidy to Bay Rapid Transit. This agreement will terminate on September 30, 1973 and no definitive plan of action to continue Public Bus Transportation has evolved. This problem is critical and begs an answer. Several alternative solutions have been proposed to the Joint Powers Agency; this remains a top priority item.

Budget and Tax Rate. With the commencement of the new 1973-74 fiscal year, the City Council must now consider a number of major steps in finalizing the financial plan through June 30, 1974. The preliminary budget recently approved sets the guideline until the final is adopted in August. General Law cities such as Seaside must set tax rate and the amount to be derived prior to September.

During the next six weeks, work must be completed on: (1) closing out last year's accounts and determining carryover amounts which help fund the new budget; (2) secruing final detail on assessed valuations, including the Pulbic Utility Roll, in the overall and redevelopment sections of the community; (3) compiling salary and fringe benefit comparative data; (4) concluding "meet and confer" sessions with employee groups; (5) determining the nature and cost of PEP program absorption; (6) obtaining population certification from the State Department of Finance (which affects subvention revenue and is subject to fluctuation annually, particularly in our very mobile area); (7) reevaluating major program costs such as transportation, public works projects (particularly on street work adjacent to the shopping center proposal and sustained water production) and social service facilities in coordination with County relocation plans; and finally (8) relating all these items to final budget revenue projections and expenditure allocations.

Mid-summer weeks are hectic. In addition to typical complixities, the City Council is faced with fpecial problems this year. Effects of SB90 (Reagan-Moretti tax relief legislation), general revenue sharing formulae and proposed special revenue sharing in relation to redevelopment activity must be evaluated. A number of PEP positions now comprise a portion of basic staffing requirements (sustaining Fire and ambulance service levels, maintaining expanding park and landscaped systems, etc.) and their cost factors must be appraised. Solutions to water production and mass transit problems are critical. Right answers in coordination with private and County agencies must be found in the social service fields.

Compounding this year's capital allocation was the absolute necessity to appropriate a major amount to commence a long overdue replacement process for two pieces of antiquated (1941 & 1948) fire apparatus. It is anticipated this will require approximately $100,000 which is being programmed at $20,000 annually over a 5-year span. Hopefully, a time payment plan will be developed to permit early acquisition.

Decisions on these and other matters will affect not only this year's budget but also the long range fiscal programming of the City. Such affects must be weighed against long range revenue forecasts and evaluated in relative priority importance to the needs of our people. Decision must also be made on the level of reserves for contingencies and uneven cash flow. Inadequate current cost information, such as on ultimate solution to the bus transportation situation, may dictate additional reserve amounts.

These items give a sampling of factors that must be weighed before the final budget is adopted. Only then can funding amounts be determined and the tax levels set. Only about 20% of revenues are derived from ad valorem taxes. The preliminary budget is predicated on current level. Effects of the increased reassessment must be judged against all the factors mentioned above and particularly in relation to long range forecasts. Certainly the rate will not increase. Every effort will be made to mold or reduce the rate dependent on the expressed needs of our citizens for services, which increase constantly in cost, sometimes more rapidly than expansion of our community's economy.

PARADE OF CHAMPIONS

Congratulations are very much in order to everyone who contributed to our Independence Day activities! Nothing succeeds more than success!

It is impossible in this short report to give appropriate recognition to the numerous individuals who contributed of themselves to help make the events superb in every category.

Those of you who missed our First Annual Drum and Bugle Corps contest, which was held at the MPC Stadium, should resolve to attend next yeat. Fifteen hundred youngsters performed in a truly outstanding manner. Seaside's Community Choir again sang beautifully in opening the program on Saturday evening.

Special recognition to the following organizations: Fort Ord - Unit and Staff, Seaside Chamber of Commerce, Young Adults for Action, Seaside American Legion Post 591 and, of course, the Seaside Post News-Sentinel, which provided the essential advance news and publicity.

Mr. Howard B. Ingels and Mr. Cleve Williams worked an entire year in planning, preparing, and directing these spectaculars! Our "thanks" to you two are especially inadequate. Your contributions deserve all the praise we can heap on you!

We also wish to thank the VIP's who attended--Assemblyman Bob Wood, General and Mrs. Moore, Mayor Barney Anderson of Carmel, Supervisors Church, Branson, and Poyner, plus our 15,000 citizens!

In the non-professional FLOAT category, two parade entries were deserving of special awards. In my opinion, the floats prepared and entered by the Seaside Youth Council and, most assuredly, the Martin Luther King Junior High School float, titled "Human Relations," were outstanding. Our youngsters from Martin Luther King Junior High raised the money, themselves, necessary to purchase the materials for the float. They also constructed the float. We salute Mrs. Mae Johnson and all your students!

Next Saturday morning, YAFA will be conducting our Annual Soap Box Derby commencing at about 9:30 a.m. (July 14, 1973). The youngsters are busy putting the last minute refinements on their individually built racers. This is the reason our Independence Flags/decorations are still fluttering on our thoroughfares. Come on out to LaSalle Avenue to cheer on your favorite racer next Saturday.

Will Martha speak up for John? Will John get a chance to speak? Will anybody besides Martha get a chance to speak? These questions will be answered by the time you read this. Martha was offered a private viewing room where she could watch John being questioned by the Senate Watergate Committee, but she turned it down and has been given the OK to sit right behind John. For about two days I expect the Watergate Show will be the hottest thing on TV.

Our editor last week brought up a very pertinent point in his editorial. With all the radio and TV and press coverage of the Senate hearings, how will they ever find trial jurors who have not been influenced perhaps to the point of making up their minds about guilt or innocence. Bear in mind that the Senate hearings are not courtroom trials. According to the editorial a defendant in a criminal case "has the right to be tried by his peers in a setting in which the peers have not been exposed to the evidence in such a way that they would have already concluded his guilt or innocence."

This particular Constitutional right may very well see Mr. Nixon on through until his time finally runs out in 1976, because even the U.S. Seante acting as a trial court in impeachment proceedings could hardly say that the material already persented has not pointed toward an obvious conclusion.

And this is a Constitutional right which has been greatly abused, possibly opening the door even wider for a complete breakdown of what was intended to be a very good system of justice for all. A callous murderer, for example, who happened to be almost but not quite insance, could insist on jurors who were all balmost but not quite insane, otherwise they would not be his "peers." If his crime was sho heinous that it was carried as a news item by every news media in the country, and if the story stated that he had committed the crime in front of six members of the U.S. Supreme Court who happened to be leaving a restaurant at the time, and all of them told the reporters what they had seen, then how do we find a jury that has not been influenced by publicity?

There is one good way, and that is to search the country far and wide for twelve wide-awake American citizens who don't care enought about their country or its future to even read the newspapers, and then make sure they can meet the "almost but not quite insane" requirement. Justice might triumph in such a case, but it would have to be purely accidental.

Officer Michael D. O'Reilley

Michael O'Reilley was born in San Francisco and spent his young years between there and the Monterey Peninsula. Michael obtained his primary education through Catholic schools. Graduating from high school in San Jose, Michael attended the University of California at Berkeley. Because he was interested in law enforcement, he changed from political science to criminology. Graduating from the University of California at Berkeley with his BA, Michael then enrolled at UC Berkeley School of Education Intern Program where he obtained his secondary teaching credentials.

In the Fall of 1970 Michael was employed as a teacher at Seaside High School, teaching Driver Education, Civics, and US History. During this same period of time he was hired as a Reserve police officer by the City of Seaside. In November of 1971 a position was available for a full time regular police officer, with his desire to get into law enforcement, he resigned from Seaside High and joined the Seaside Police Department.

Michael, already having an extensive educational background in the field of law enforcement, was still required by the state of California to attend and graduate from an authorized law enforcement academy. He graduated from the Central Coast Counties Police Academy, located at Gavilan College in Gilroy. After completion of the academy, he received his Basic Certificate from the State of California Department of Justice Commission on Peace Officers Standards and Training. Since Michael has come to work for Seaside, he has been an active patrolman working in the field. He has been very active in the area of school talks in the lower grades.

Letters to theEditor

Editor: We read that the Price Index has gone up over 15 percent since a year ago. Hesitatingly, Congress finally decided to raise by 5.6 percent the social security checks of retired folks. Grudgingly, the White House at long last approved after making sure it will not take effect until July 1, 1974 - a bit late for those old folks who will pass away during the coming year! And, since inflation is continuing by greater leaps, how much higher will everything cost by the middle of next year?

Our officials in Washingron can increase their salaries periodically - and expense allowances, and other benefits - at a substantial amount. They can waste hundreds of billions of taxpayers funds on dubious wars thousands of miles away, where the threat against us is difficult to perceive. Many billions can go the boast of outer space achievements and to foreign aid that often winds up in huge chunks of money in the pocket of corrupt dictators abroad.

What makes the "servants of the people" in our nation's capitol so callous when it comes to helping old folks? Americans who have spent their livs at constructive endeavors building up the nation and should deserve decent treatment in their retired few remaining days? Why are the retirement social security checks so awful low that they nowhere meet what it costs to get by nowadays in decency. and to pay medical, dental, hearing aid and other health bills not covered adequately or at all by Medicare?

What game of "cat and mouse" are people in power of government playing with the lives of the elderly. Americans letting them - for the most part - live out bleak, deprived, penny-pinching lives? Often neglected, without public transportation to get about, except for a very few?

We recently celebrated Independence Day as a nation. Political leaders spoke eloquenty of "our forefathers of '76," sang the Star-Spangled Banner, saluted the flag and boasted of how patriotic they were. Many old folks would like to ask them: What world do you inhabit? Are you on Earth - do you see how we have tough going - most of the over 25,000,000 retired folks? Does your patriotism mainly consist of looking out for yourselves very well, and for your affluent friends? Why not act kindly, compassionately, as real "servants of the people," so that all will know that government at all times is "of the people, by the people, and for the people?"

Sincerely yours,
George Herman

Monterey Peninsula Antique Show At Church Complex

Many church and charitable groups throughout the West sponsor Antiques Shows, but one of the most selective is the Monterey Peninsula Antiques Show and Sale, sponsored by St. Mary's by-the-Sea Episcopal Church of Pacific Grove. This year, July 13, 14 and 15, the 16th Annaul Monterey Peninsula Antiques Show will be held at the St. Mary's Church Complex.

Antiques dealers from throughout California will be located in the newly decorated Parish Hall and rooms of Clay Hall, the education building.

These rooms will be transsormed into arcades of antiquity as the 27 specialized exhibitors feature Oriental, Spanish, Georgian, French, Early American, Primitive and Victorian furniture and acessories. Bins of silver, crystal chandeliers, paintings, pewter, copper and brass, buttons, bottles and old books as well as American Indian and Eskimo artifacts will be in the show. Art glass, clocks and old steins, items of museum calibre, as well as collector's memorabilia will also be available.

Mrs. Lawrence H. Lyon, Chairman of the show and one of California's foremost fuschia growers, has supervised the landscaping of the church grounds and garden courtyard where a Bonsai Booth will be located. A hot Gourmet Lunch will be served each day in the Garden Court, and desserts and coffee will be available throughout the show. In addition, homemade cakes, cookies, candies, jams, jellies and other delicacies will be for sale in the Pot Pourri Pantry. Door prizes will be drawn daily.

Antiques afficianados will also have the privilege of seeing the historic St. Mary's by-the-Sea church, a little architectural masterpiece designed by William Hamilton in 1887 and modeled after a Gothic church in Bath, England.

A pair of original signed Louis C. Tiffany floral stained glass windows were a gift of Cyrus H. McCormick, nephew of the inventor of the reaper, who married Harriet Hammond in the church and had the windows placed there in her memory at a later date.

Over the altar is "The Annunciation," a stained glass window by Bruce Porter, who also designed the Robert Louis Stevenson statue in San Francisco's Portsmouth Square. He studied the stretch of sea in front of the church and incorporated it into his design. The alter window was dedicated to Helen Reed, first deaconess in the Diocese of California's Episcopal Church. She had suggested the name, St. Mary's by-the-Sea, when the church was founded, and selected the subject for the altar window.

Architects will be interested in how the redwood church was enlarged in 1911 by splitting it down the middle, so the front and back portions are the oldes parts of the structure. The interior is finished in natural wood; pine, cedar, redwood and walnut.

Recently sculptor Sigismond Wolf of Big Sur completed a memorial reredos of seven panels depicting scenes in the life of St. Mary over a Memoiral Altar dedicated to those serving in the Armed Service. Mr. Wolf also executed the Stations of the Cross, which he presented to the church.

Other antiquities which visitors may view are a collection of crosses and a valuable Roman-style cloisonne cross Holy Water stoup, which is over 250 years old.

Hours for the 16th Annual Monterey Peninsula Antiques Show are noon until 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, July 13 and 14, and noon until 5 p.m., Sunday, July 15. Admission is $1.50 daily donation.

Salinas Group Oppose Pay Increase

The Salinas Citizens' Betterment Association has launched a county-wide petition signing drive to void the Monterey County Board of Supervisor's 56.2 percent pay hike.

By resolution, the SCBA board of directors voted unanimously to support the Voters' Committee For Property Rights and Equitable Taxation in their effort to secure 5,949 signatures by August 3rd.

SCBA President Billy R. Jackson said, "Among our five supervisors we have two lawyers, two insurance agents and a Christmas tree grower. An annual raise from $9,600.00 to $15,000.00 for a part-time job sets a bad example when they should be economizing, especially during budget time!"

"They meet once a week and have more Monterey County employees to serve them than any previous board. We're asked to tighten our belts while the dollar weakens the state sales tax unecessarily goes up in the race of over a $800 million dollar surplus in Sacramento. It's just too much to take without a fight!," Jackson concluded.

Anyone wishing to circulate a petition or sign one should contact any SCBA director or member. Petition inquiries may also be directed to P. O. Box 5236, Salinas, Ca. 93901 or the following telephone numbers: 449-5186, 422-9925, 449-6371 or 424-3170.

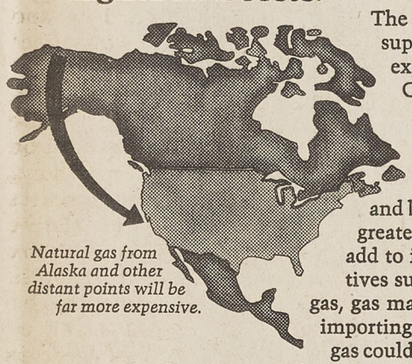
Solving the energy problem will be expensive. For you as well as for us.

More costly fuel supplies, construction schedule delays, high interest rates, inflation and the increasing costs of protecting the environment all add up to higher utility rates.

At PG&E we're doing everything we can to provide you with reliable gas and electric service and to keep rates as low as possible. But rates are higher today and they'll continue to increase.

Here's a closer look at the reasons why:

Higher fuel costs.



Natural gas from Alaska and other distant points will be far more expensive.

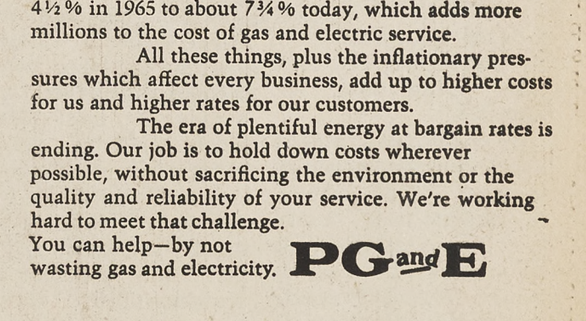
The search for new gas supplies, including exploration in Canada and the Alaskan north slope, is expensive. Such gas will cost more and bringing it from greater distances will add to its price. Alternatives such as synthetic gas, gas made from coal, and importing liquefied natural gas could cost even more.

Besides natural gas, only low-sulfur oil is acceptable as fuel in steam-electric power plants under present air pollution control standards. And we have to pay high premium prices for low-sulfur oil.

(When the costs of oil and natural gas go up, so must electric rates, because most of our steam-electric power plants are fueled by gas or oil.)

Construction schedule delays.

Regulatory procedures, involving up to 30 or more public agencies, are taking longer and longer. And new laws and regulations have established more complicated procedures for plant siting and construction. All these slow down construction schedules, and inflation alone is adding substantially to costs during these periods of delay.

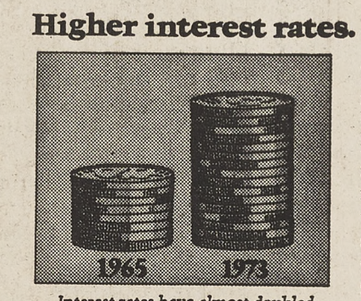


Last year we spent $48 million to help improve the environment, including undergrounding power lines.

Environmental costs.

It costs more to put power lines underground, to build and landscape esthetically pleasing plants, to minimize stack emissions and to cool the water discharged from power plants. During the period 1973-76, PG&E's environmental expenditures will exceed $300 million.

Higher interest rates.



Interest rates have almost doubled during the last ten years.

Utilities are "capital intensive" industries. That means money to build new facilities must be raised—in vast sums. Our construction program this year will exceed $600 million. And interest rates have risen from about 4½% in 1965 to about 7¾% today, which adds more millions to the cost of gas and electric service.

All these things, plus the inflationary pressures which affect every business, add up to higher costs for us and higher rates for our customers.

The era of plentiful energy at bargain rates is ending. Our job is to hold down costs wherever possible, without sacrificing the environment or the quality and reliability of your service. We're working hard to meet that challenge.

You can help—by not wasting gas and electricity.

State Asks Help In Cancer Tracing Task

California's 42,000 practicing physicians have been asked to help state health officials located daughters of women who were given a synthetic hormone in the mid-1040s and early 1950s to prevent miscarriage during pregnancy.

A letter requesting "voluntary collaboration" of all doctors licensed by the State Board of Medical Examiners has been released by the state public health director, Dr. Frederick B. Hodges, and the president of the California Medical Association, Dr. Thomas Elmendorf. The letter said, in part:

"You n routinely inquire into the use of DES (diethylstibestrol) when taking a new patient's pregnancy history or when examining one of your old patients, explain the reason for your query and urge those who did take DES to have their daughters examined and put under observation."

Dr. Hodges said California is working with an national registry in Boston, directed by Dr. Arthur L. Herbst, that documents cases of vaginal cancer believed associated with use of DES during pregnancy. In California, 23 such cases have been diagnosed so far in girls born between 1945 and 1955. More cases can be expected to develop in the future, Dr. Hodges said.

The two officials also told the physicians that recently a high proportion of healthy adolescent girls whose mothers took DES during pregnancy were found to have genital tract abnormalities, "such as benign adenosis, cervical erosions and/or cervical ridges."

"Only time will tell whether patients with such lesions are at increased risk of developing cancer," the letter said.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration in November 1971 warned against use of DES during pregnancy, following a study by Dr. Herbst and others that showed an unusually high occurrence of vaginal and cervical abnormalities among young women whose mothers had received the estrogen. The use of stilbestrol-like agents to prevent miscarriage came into prominence about 1946 and was popular for the next several years. However, no cases of vaginal cancer linked to DES have been seen in women over 24.

Dr. Hodges said in the interest of public health it is important that girls who were exposed to DES "in utero" be examined on reaching secual maturity and that they be kept under medical surveillance. The purpose of the letter to the state's physicians was to obtain their full cooperation in achieving this goal, he said.

Seniors Can Get Answers To Tax Problems

Senior Citizens who have questions concerning their Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance claim may obtain assistance at City Hall, Council Chambers, Room 5, 570 Pacific Avenue in Monterey, according to State Controller, Houston I. Flournoy.

The representative will be there Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 17, 18 & 19. Office mours will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Approximately $59 million was paid out in reimbursements to 292,000 claimants last year, representing more than seven times the $8.3 million paid on 56,000 claims in 1971, Flournoy said.

Californians who are over 62 years of age, own and reside in their own homes, have paid taxes for the current year and have income of $10,000 or less are entitled to a reimbursement of a portion of their property taxes under California law.

Eligible senior citizens should file their claim as soon as possible. The deadline for filing is October 15, 1973.

Requests for information and claim forms may be made to any Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance branch office or to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P.O. Box 1588, Sacramento, CA 95807.

Claim forms will also be available at the temporary location listed above. Information may be obtained over the telephone by calling the nearest Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance office at 408 998-1540.

Brown In Black Hall

Jim Brown, currently filming the starring role in Penelope Productions' "The Slams," has been named to the National Black Sports Hall of Fame, it was recently announced by Allan Barron, publisher of Black Sports Magazine.

Brown, an All-American at Syracuse University before joining the Cleveland Browns in 1957, rewrote the annals of NFL history during his awesome climb to football immortality.

He was an eight-time league leader in rushing, scoring the most touchdowns rushing (106), and scoring the most touchdowns (126). He gained 12,312 yards in 118 games over nine seasons. He was also all-Pro fullback every season he played, and in 1964 won the $10,000 diamond-studded Hickok Belt as the pro athlete of the year.

Filming Of 'Super Cops' Is Finished

Principal photography on MGM's "The Super Cops" was completed on schedule under the direction of Gordon Parks. Ron Leibman and David Selby star in the William Belasco Production.

"The Super Cops" began production on April 23rd and was filmed entirely on location in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, Coney Island and Manhattan.

Sheila Frazier, Pat Hingle and Don Frazer co-star in Lorenzo Semple Jr.'s screenplay of two cops who wore uniforms to make it legal but had to write their own rules for crushing crime in New York.

Leibman plays Dave Greenberg and Selby portrays Bob Hantz -- the two young New York City policemen whose exciting and often humorous exploits are also the subject of the best-selling book "The Super Cops" by L.H. Whittemore. Greenberg and Hantz served as technical advisors on the film as well as playing featured roles.

Gaining notoriety among their peers, the press and the local citizenry, the pair stalked through Brooklyn's tough Bedford-Stuyvesant section maing six hundred arrests in three years with a 93 percent conviction rate as compared to five percent for the entire New York police force. They were promoted to detectives in February of 1972 when former Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy cited them for "imagination, effort and bravery." Still in their twenties, Greenberg and Hantz holf forty-three citations each.

"The Super Cops" is scheduled for late fall release.

Housing Starts Still Strong In California

New housing activity in California continued to show strength in May with new starts at a seasonnaly adjusted annual rate of 251,000 units, down slightly from April, Bank of America economists report recently.

The seasonally adjusted annual rate for April was 260,000 units.

During much of 1972, building permit activity in California ran ahead of actual housing starts. This backlog of permits is contributing to the current strength in new starts, the bank's economists said.

Bank of America's economics department, however, expects new residential construction activity in California to turn down in the second half of 1973.

Protein-Rich Foods From Cottonseed

If it were suddenly announced that a new plant had been discovered which would produce food and fiber at the same time, the news would be heralded around the world.

Fortunately for the consumer, such a plant has been known and used by mankind for almost 7,000 years. Only recently, however, has a practical way been developed to utilize the protein-rich human food potential of cotton, whose fiber usage dates back to antiquity.

The National Cotton Council reports that Plains Cooperative Oil Mill in Lubbock, Texas, is now finishing construction on the world's first cottonseed flour mill. Expected to be in production by late summer, it will manufacture some 15 million tons annually of a 65-75 percent protein concentrate from cottonseed.

Its initial output will go to Muscatine, Ia., where Grain Processing Corporation has contracted to merchandise the concentrate for use in baked goods, beverages, and meat extenders.

Also contemplated is further refinement of the concentrate into a 95-100 percent protein isolate for making nutritious snack foods and other products.

Extensive lab tests on the new concentrate reveal some interesting possibilities. For instance, its use as a partial replacement for wheat flour in baking products resulted in cakes and cookies with a higher protein content than meat.

And its substitution for soy and non-fat milk solids in beef patties produced flavorful steakburgers with pleasing texture and less shinkage in frying.

A variety of these new food products recently passed a Congressional "taste test" at a Cotton Food Day reception in Washington.

While cottonseed as a protein source isn't expected to replace beef, pork, or other meats, it does promise to be one of the best and leas expensive supplements available.

Up until now, cotton farmers haven't thought of themselves as protein producers. But tomorrow's grower probably will. Each bale of cotton he raises from a single acre of land also provides 160 pounds of protine. That's about four times the amount of protine produced by a cow-and-calf operation on two acres.

Cottonseed production in the U.S. runs about 4 million tons annually, while the rest of the world produces about 20 million. With the huge protein deficit in the world expected to become even more critical in the next few years, cottonseed's new potential couldn't have been develoled at a better time.

$1 Fee Charged At Border Park

The State Department of Parks and Recreation announced recently that the $1 per car day use fee will be charged at Border Field beginning July 14. Purpose of the fee is to help cover costs of security, maintenance, clean up, and lifeguard service.

Department Director William Penn Mott, Jr., said that the Department's policy throughout the State Park System is to try to recover half the cost of park operations through visitor use fees.

Border Field, on the ocean at the California-Mexico border, was given to the State in 1971 under President Nixon's Legacy of Parks Program. It contains three parking areas and temporary sanitary facilities and offers fishing, swimming, informal picnicking and beach recreation. The State Park and Recreation Commission has not yet classified the unit.

The fee will be collected at the park unit entrance at the end of Monument Road.
